

Wakeeli Master Go-To-Market Plan

Charbel Salameh | Solo Founder | 2026

One number that matters: First paying client, delivering measurable results, documented as a case study. Everything in this plan serves that goal until it is done.

CONTEXT AND UNFAIR ADVANTAGES

Before strategy, lock in what you actually have:

What most founders don't have that you do:

- 400,000 AI conversations managed across 3 years
- 36,000 appointments booked via AI DM system (info coaching space)
- Working product: A1 and A2 flows live on WhatsApp (ManyChat/GCC) and iMessage via SendBlue (US)
- Sales Navigator active and in motion
- 6 months of product development already absorbed

What this means: You are not starting from zero. You are starting with proof of concept from a different vertical. The job now is to translate that proof into real estate language and put it in front of the right buyers.

The market gap you are filling:

- Average US real estate lead response time: 47 hours
- Required response time to maximize conversion: under 5 minutes
- Conversion advantage of 5-minute response vs. 30-minute: 21x
- Percentage of deals won by first responder: 35 to 50% (Forbes)
- Average US commission per closed deal: $13,200 (based on $480K median home, 2.75%)

Translation for prospects: If Wakeeli helps close 3 extra deals per month, that is $39,600 in recovered revenue. At $599/month, the ROI math is not a debate. It is a calculator.

PHASE 0: FOUNDATION

Week 1 to 2 | Lock Everything Before You Touch Outreach

Framework: Dan Martell. Systems before scale. You cannot sell what is not stable. You cannot scale what is not documented.

0.1 Product Stability (Days 1 to 5)

What done looks like:

- A1 flow handles 10 consecutive test conversations without breaking
- A2 flow routes correctly to human handoff at the right moment
- You can demo it live on a phone call without anything going wrong
- Response latency is under 3 seconds on the first message

Specific tasks:

1. Run 50 test conversations through A1 flow manually. Log every failure point.
2. Fix all edge cases where the bot gives a wrong or empty reply.
3. Set up a staging environment so demos never touch production.
4. Write a one-page internal doc: "What the bot does, what it does not do, and why."
5. Record a 3-minute screen-share demo video. No voiceover. Just the bot working. This is your proof asset.

Definition of done: You can send the demo video to a stranger and they immediately understand what the product does.

0.2 Offer Structure (Days 1 to 3)

Framework: Alex Hormozi. The Grand Slam Offer. Make the value so obvious and the risk so low that saying no feels irrational.

Case study offer (Phase 1 pricing):

- Price: Free for 30 days, then $299/month if results hit the agreed benchmark
- Benchmark defined upfront: X leads contacted, Y responses generated, Z tours booked
- You get: full permission to document and publish the case study
- They get: a working AI lead conversion system, zero upfront risk

Standard offer (Phase 3 pricing, after case study):

Tier	Price	Includes
Starter	$299/month	1 agent seat, 100 AI conversations/month, WhatsApp or iMessage
Growth	$599/month	5 agent seats, 500 conversations, both channels, monthly review call
Scale	$1,199/month	Unlimited seats, unlimited conversations, priority support, quarterly strategy

Risk reversal (Phase 3):

- "If Wakeeli does not generate at least 10 qualified conversations in your first 30 days, you pay nothing."
- This is sustainable because you will know by Day 5 if it is working. It almost always works.

The value stack (Hormozi method, what to say on calls):

What they get	Estimated value
AI that responds to every lead in under 60 seconds	$3,000/month in agent time
Lead qualification without human effort	$1,500/month
Tour booking automation	$1,000/month
24/7 coverage, no sick days, no missed messages	Priceless in real estate
Total value	$5,500/month
What they pay	$599/month

0.3 LinkedIn Profile (Days 1 to 4)

Your LinkedIn is your storefront. Fix it before you send one more connection request.

Banner: Clean graphic. Text: "Wakeeli: Real Estate Leads Followed Up. Automatically."

Headline: "Founder at Wakeeli | AI Lead Conversion for Real Estate Brokerages | 36,000 Appointments Booked"

About section (write this exactly):

"Real estate brokerages lose deals every day because leads go cold before an agent picks up the phone.

I built Wakeeli to fix that.

Wakeeli is an AI-powered lead conversion system that contacts every new lead in under 60 seconds, qualifies them automatically, and books property tours without human involvement.

Before Wakeeli: I ran an AI conversation center for info coaches. 400,000 conversations. 36,000 appointments booked over 3 years. I know what it takes to convert at scale with AI.

Now I am bringing that infrastructure to real estate.

If you run a brokerage and your agents are spending time chasing cold leads, let's talk."

Featured section: Pin the 3-minute demo video.

Experience: One entry for Wakeeli. Keep it to 3 bullets. Outcomes only.

0.4 Website Hero Section (Days 3 to 7)

You do not need a full website. You need a landing page that converts.

Hero headline: "Every Lead. Followed Up. In Under 60 Seconds."

Sub-headline: "Wakeeli is the AI lead conversion system that qualifies, engages, and books property tours automatically. While your agents sleep."

Social proof line: "Built on the same AI infrastructure that booked 36,000 appointments across 400,000 conversations."

CTA: One button. "Book a 20-Minute Demo" linked to Calendly.

What the page needs (in order):

1. Hero section with headline, sub-headline, and CTA
2. The math (1 section): "$599/month vs. $39,600 in recovered commissions"
3. How it works (3 steps): Lead comes in, Wakeeli responds in 60 seconds, tour gets booked
4. The demo video (embed it)
5. A second CTA at the bottom

That is it. No testimonials yet. No pricing page yet. Just enough to validate you are real.

0.5 Dubai Incorporation (Days 7 to 14)

Why now: GCC market is Phase 2. Dubai entity makes invoicing cleaner, builds credibility with UAE brokerages, and signals seriousness to US enterprise buyers.

Specific steps:

1. Research: IFZA (International Free Zone Authority) vs. Meydan Free Zone for solo founders, low setup cost
2. Get quotes from 3 formation agents. Budget range: $3,000 to $5,000 all-in for year one

3. Target completion: before first GCC outreach begins (Week 8)

What done looks like: Trade license received, business bank account opened, Wakeeli.com shows "Dubai" in footer.

PHASE 1: FIRST CLIENTS

Week 1 to 4 | Three Case Study Clients

Framework: Alex Hormozi (Grand Slam Offer) + Liam Ottley (Pilot Program structure)

1.1 Who to Target

Ideal Phase 1 prospect:

- US real estate brokerage owner or team leader (not an individual agent)
- 3 to 20 agents on the team
- Active on LinkedIn and responsive to DMs
- Has a lead volume problem they have mentioned publicly (posts about lead quality, agent productivity, or conversion)
- Location: Texas, Florida, California, or Arizona (high transaction volume, high lead cost)

Why not individual agents: They cannot make the buying decision for the team. Target the owner.

How to find them on Sales Navigator:

- Title: "Broker/Owner" OR "Team Lead" OR "Managing Broker"
- Industry: Real Estate
- Company size: 2 to 20 employees
- Geography: TX, FL, CA, AZ
- Activity: Posted on LinkedIn in the last 30 days (signals they are active)

Daily target: 20 connection requests sent per day. No more. LinkedIn flags accounts that go over 100 per week.

1.2 LinkedIn DM Sequence (Step by Step)

Framework: Liam Ottley. Warm before you pitch. Value before ask. Never pitch in the first message.

Step 1: Connection request (Day 0)

Personalize every single one. Do not use the default "I'd like to add you to my network."

Template:

"Hey [First Name], came across your profile while looking at top brokerages in [City]. Running something that might be relevant to what you're building. Sending a request."

Step 2: First message (Day 1 after acceptance)

"Hey [First Name], thanks for connecting.

Quick context: I built an AI system for info coaches that booked 36,000 appointments over 3 years, across 400,000 conversations.

I'm now adapting that same infrastructure for real estate brokerages. The core problem I'm solving: leads go cold because agents can't respond fast enough.

The math is painful: 21x lower conversion if you miss that 5-minute window.

I'm looking for 3 brokerages to pilot Wakeeli at no cost for 30 days. You'd get a working system, documented results, and zero obligation.

Is that something worth a 20-minute conversation?"

Step 3: Follow-up if no reply (Day 5)

"Hey [First Name], just circling back on the message above.

I know your inbox is loud. Here's the short version: 30 days, no cost, AI that responds to every new lead in under 60 seconds and books tours automatically.

If it works, you keep it at a rate that makes obvious sense. If it doesn't, you've lost nothing but 20 minutes.

Worth a quick call?"

Step 4: Final follow-up if still no reply (Day 10)

"No worries if timing is off, [First Name]. I'll keep this short.

I'm attaching a 3-minute video of the system in action. If lead conversion is on your radar this quarter, I think you'll find it worth watching.

[Link to demo video]

Happy to answer questions whenever it makes sense."

What to do after Day 10 with no response: Move on. Mark them as "No response, follow up in 60 days." Never send a 5th message.

1.3 The Demo Call (20 Minutes)

Goal: Qualify, show, close. Do not pitch. Let the demo do the work.

Minute 0 to 5: Discovery

Ask only these three questions:

1. "How many new leads are you getting per month right now?"
2. "What's your team's average response time when a new lead comes in?"

3. "What happens to the leads that don't get called back within an hour?"

Listen. Let them tell you the problem.

Minute 5 to 15: Demo

Screen share. Show a real lead coming in. Show the bot replying in under 60 seconds. Show it qualifying. Show it asking to book a tour. Show the calendar invite going out.

Say only this while it runs:

"This is what happens to every lead, from the second they fill out your form, at any hour, including 2am."

Minute 15 to 20: The ask

"Here's what I want to propose. You let me run this on your incoming leads for 30 days at no cost. I track every conversation, every tour booked, every conversion. At the end of 30 days, you have hard data. If the numbers are good, we talk about what makes sense going forward. If they're not, you've lost nothing.

I'm only doing this with 3 brokerages. I have 2 spots left. Do you want to be one of them?"

1.4 Objection Handling

"We already have a CRM that does follow-up."

"CRMs send one email and call it done. Wakeeli has a two-way conversation. It qualifies, handles objections, and books the tour. The CRM still gets the data. Wakeeli just handles the conversation that the CRM can't."

"I don't have time to set this up."

"I set everything up. You give me access to your lead source and 30 minutes to walk through your qualification criteria. That's the full time investment on your end."

"We've tried chatbots before."

"What you tried was a flow chart with canned responses. This is a Claude-powered AI that understands context, adapts to what the lead says, and knows when to hand off to a human. The output is tours booked, not chat transcripts."

"What if it sounds robotic?"

"Fair concern. That's exactly why I'm running pilots with live data before I scale. I'll show you real conversations from the test period. If the quality isn't there, we fix it before it goes live on your leads."

"I need to think about it."

"Understood. What specifically feels unclear? I'd rather answer it now than let you sit on a question that has a simple answer."

1.5 Onboarding the First Client

Day 1 after agreement:

- Get access to their lead source (website form, Zillow, Realtor.com, or whatever they use)
- 30-minute call to understand their qualification criteria: location preference, budget range, buying timeline, pre-approval status
- Draft the A1 flow customized to their brokerage voice

Day 3:

- A1 flow live in staging, send them test conversations to approve
- Agree on benchmark: what does success look like in 30 days? (Suggest: 50 leads contacted, 15 qualified, 5 tours booked)

Day 5:

- Go live
- Daily check-in message to them for the first 7 days: "Yesterday: X leads contacted, Y responded, Z tours scheduled. Nothing to action on your end."

Day 30:

- Pull the full report
 - Schedule a results call
 - Present: before vs. after, side by side, with screenshots of actual conversations

PHASE 2: PROOF OF CONCEPT

Week 4 to 8 | Turn Results Into Marketing Fuel

Framework: Sabri Suby. Document everything. Evidence is your most valuable asset.

2.1 What to Capture During Every Pilot

Track these numbers daily in a simple spreadsheet:

- Total new leads that entered the flow
- Percentage of leads that received a first reply within 60 seconds
- Percentage that responded to the bot

- Percentage that qualified as serious buyers
- Number of tours booked
- Number of tours that showed up
- Deals in pipeline attributed to Wakeeli conversations

Before state (capture on Day 1 of pilot):

Ask the client: "In the 30 days before Wakeeli, how many leads did you get, how many did your team contact, and how many tours did you book from those leads?"

Lock in that baseline number. That is your "before."

After state (capture on Day 30):

Same metrics, same 30-day window. Same lead source.

The case study format:

Brokerage: [Name or anonymized as "Austin-based brokerage, 8 agents"]

Problem: 200 leads per month, 40% never received a response within 24 hours

What we did: Deployed Wakeeli A1 flow on all inbound web leads

Result (30 days): 198/200 leads received a reply within 90 seconds. 42 tours booked vs. 11 in the prior month. 3 deals closed from Wakeeli-initiated conversations.

ROI: $39,600 in commissions from $599/month in spend. 66x return.

2.2 Getting the Testimonial

Do not ask for a written testimonial. Ask for a 2-minute video.

Script to send:

"Hey [Name], really happy with how the first month went. Would you be open to jumping on a 5-minute call so I can record you talking through what you saw? It doesn't need to be scripted. I'll ask you three questions and you just answer honestly. It'll help me show other brokerages what's possible."

The three questions:

1. What was your lead response situation before Wakeeli?

2. What changed in the first 30 days?
3. Who would you recommend this to?

Two minutes of authentic video is worth more than any marketing copy you could write.

2.3 LinkedIn Build Journal (Content Pillar 1)

Start posting the build journal immediately. Even before first results.

Why: Real estate brokerage owners follow other founders. They trust people who show their work. This builds the audience that will buy in Phase 3.

Posting schedule: 3 posts per week minimum.

Format for build journal posts:

- First line is the hook (more on this in the content section)
- 3 to 5 short paragraphs, no walls of text
- End with one question to the reader
- No hashtag spam. Two or three max.

Sample build journal post (Week 3):

"We just went live with our first real estate pilot.

200 leads sitting in a brokerage's CRM. Their average response time before: 4.5 hours.

Our AI is now responding to every single one in under 90 seconds.

Day 3 update: 22 conversations initiated, 6 tours booked. Their agents haven't touched a single one.

This is what I've been building for 6 months. Watching it work in real-time is a different feeling entirely.

I'll post the full 30-day numbers when we have them.

For any brokerage owners reading this: still have 2 pilot spots open."

PHASE 3: SCALE OUTREACH

Week 8 to 16 | Volume With Proof

Framework: Sabri Suby (proof-first marketing) + Liam Ottley (systemized outreach)

3.1 What Changes After You Have a Case Study

Before proof: you are asking for trust. After proof: you are sharing evidence.

Every outreach message in Phase 3 leads with the result:

"Hey [Name], a brokerage in [State] used Wakeeli last month and booked 42 tours vs. 11 in the prior month from the same lead volume. Their agents did not contact a single one of those leads manually.

I'm scaling to 10 more brokerages in Q3. Worth 20 minutes to see if it's a fit?"

That is the entire pitch. Lead with the number. Let them ask for more.

3.2 Volume Targets (Week 8 to 16)

LinkedIn outreach:

- 20 connection requests per day (Monday to Friday)
- Target: 400 per month, expect 40% acceptance rate = 160 new connections
- Of those, 30% will reply to the first message = 48 conversations per month
- Of those, 25% will book a demo = 12 demo calls per month
- Close rate on demo calls (with case study): target 30% = 3 to 4 new clients per month

By Week 16: 8 to 12 paying clients at standard rates. MRR between $4,800 and $14,400 depending on tier mix.

3.3 GCC Expansion Begins (Week 8)

Why Week 8: Dubai entity should be active. You have a case study. You have proof. The GCC pitch is cleaner because WhatsApp is already the primary channel there.

Target:

- Dubai, Abu Dhabi, Riyadh brokerages
- Companies using Property Finder and Bayut as lead sources
- High-end residential: developers and boutique agencies doing AED 2M+ transactions

Outreach channel for GCC: LinkedIn first, WhatsApp follow-up once connected (normal in GCC professional culture).

GCC pitch adjustment:

- Emphasize WhatsApp natively (they live on it)
- Emphasize 24/7 multilingual response (Arabic leads often go unanswered by English-speaking agents)
- Emphasize Dubai entity: "UAE-registered company, invoiced in AED"

3.4 Referral System

After each pilot conversion to a paying client, activate the referral ask.

"One thing I'm building into the program: if you refer another brokerage and they become a client, you get one month free. No forms, no friction. You just connect us and I handle the rest."

Structure:

- 1 referral = 1 month free (any tier)
- 3 referrals = lifetime 20% discount on your subscription
- Track via a simple Notion or Airtable table until you have enough volume to automate it

PHASE 4: SYSTEMS AND RETENTION

Ongoing from Week 8

Framework: Dan Martell. Build for MRR. Churn kills everything. Systems make it predictable.

4.1 Monthly Client Health Check

Every client gets a monthly check-in. This is not optional. This is how you prevent churn before it starts.

The monthly check-in (30 minutes):

- Review the numbers: conversations, qualified leads, tours booked
- Identify one flow that can be improved this month
- Ask: "Is there anything you wish the AI was doing differently?"
- Preview next month: "We're testing a new re-engagement sequence for leads that went cold. Want to be in the beta?"

Early churn signals:

- Client stops responding to your Slack/WhatsApp messages
- Login activity drops (if you have analytics)
- Benchmark numbers are flat for two consecutive weeks

Response to churn signals: Do not wait. Call them. "I noticed [X metric] is flat this week. Can we jump on a 15-minute call to look at what's happening?"

4.2 Upsell Paths

Upsell 1: Add more agent seats

Any client on Starter who grows their team. Trigger: they mention hiring a new agent.

Upsell 2: Additional conversation flows

Add a seller lead flow (most clients start with buyer leads only). Same system, new use case. Price: additional $199/month.

Upsell 3: Analytics dashboard

Monthly PDF report with full funnel data, conversation quality score, and recommendations. Price: $99/month add-on.

Upsell 4: WhatsApp Business API upgrade

For GCC clients who want higher volume throughput. Handled through ManyChat tier upgrade. Margin: 40%.

4.3 MRR Milestones and Decision Points

MRR	What it unlocks
$3,000	Hire first part-time virtual assistant for client support
$5,000	Run paid LinkedIn ads targeting brokerage owners
$10,000	Hire first full-time sales person (commission-only or base + commission)
$15,000	Begin building a self-serve onboarding flow so you are not bottlenecked on every new client
$25,000	Raise prices on new clients. Existing clients stay grandfathered. New standard rates go up 30%.

OFFER STRUCTURE: FULL HORMOZI BREAKDOWN

Framework: Alex Hormozi. The dream outcome, perceived likelihood of achievement, time to value, effort and sacrifice required. Maximize the first two. Minimize the last two.

The Math Every Prospect Needs to Hear

"Let me show you the numbers.

Average US home sale: $480,000.

Your commission at 2.75%: $13,200 per closed deal.

Industry data says you're losing 35 to 50% of deals to whoever calls first.

If Wakeeli helps your team close 3 more deals this month that would have otherwise gone cold:

That is $39,600 in recovered commissions.

You're not paying $39,600.

You're paying $599.

The ROI is not debatable. It is 66 to 1."

Write this on a whiteboard during demo calls. Repeat it on follow-up emails. Put it on the website.

Grand Slam Offer (Phase 1: Case Study Clients)

The offer:

- Free for 30 days
- Full setup included (no tech work on their end)
- Daily reporting included
- Only ask: permission to document and publish the case study

What makes it irresistible:

- Zero financial risk
- Zero time investment (you do the setup)
- They get actual value, not a promise of value
- The only "cost" is letting you take screenshots and use their results

What makes it scarce:

- 3 spots only (be honest: you actually can only handle 3 pilots at once)
- "I'm filling these before end of month" (true: you need the case study before Phase 3)

Standard Offer (Phase 3: Post-Proof)

The risk reversal:

"If Wakeeli does not generate at least 10 qualified conversations in your first 30 days, you pay nothing and I personally reach back out to understand what went wrong. No questions, no friction."

Why this works: You know from the pilot data that 10 qualified conversations in 30 days is an easy benchmark if the lead volume is there. You are not taking on meaningful financial risk. But to the prospect, it removes the last barrier to saying yes.

CONTENT STRATEGY

5 Pillars | Sabri Suby Framework

Framework: Sabri Suby. Content is pre-sold trust. By the time someone books a demo, they already believe you.

Pillar 1: The Build Journal

Document the journey in real time. Founders trust founders who show their work.

Sample post ideas:

- "Day 1 of our first pilot: here's what the setup looked like and what we were nervous about"
- "Week 2 update: the one metric that surprised us (it wasn't what we expected)"
- "We just crossed 100 AI conversations on a live brokerage. Here's what the data says."

Hook formula: Start with the number. Then tell the story.

"42 tours booked. 0 agent phone calls to get there. Here's how it happened."

Pillar 2: The Education Posts

Teach real estate brokerage owners something useful. No pitch. Pure value.

Sample post ideas:

- "The 5-minute rule in real estate: why your response time is costing you deals (and the research behind it)"
- "How top brokerages qualify leads without burning agent time (3 systems worth stealing)"
- "What 400,000 AI conversations taught me about what buyers actually want"

Hook formula: Call out the problem before they know to look for it.

"Your CRM is following up with leads. Your leads are buying from someone else. Here's why."

Pillar 3: The Contrarian Take

Pick a common belief in real estate and challenge it. High engagement, builds authority.

Sample post ideas:

- "Hiring more agents is not the answer to your lead conversion problem"
- "The chatbot your brokerage tried 3 years ago failed. Here's what was different and why Wakeeli is not that."
- "Speed to lead is the only metric that actually matters. Everything else is noise."

Hook formula: Make a clear claim in the first line. Then defend it with data.

"More agents will not fix your lead conversion rate. Data from 400,000 conversations says so."

Pillar 4: The Social Proof Post

Once you have data, share it. Weekly updates. Case study reveals.

Sample post ideas:

- "30-day pilot results: [Brokerage name or anonymized]. The before and after."

- "Real conversation from Wakeeli, 2am on a Saturday: this is what happens while your agents sleep"
- "3 tours booked from one lead. The AI handled the entire conversation. Here's the transcript."

Hook formula: Lead with the result. Then show the work.

"3 deals in the pipeline from leads that would have gone cold. Here's the data."

Pillar 5: The Founder Story

Your background. Why you built this. What you believe. This is the post that makes people like and trust you.

Sample post ideas:

- "I spent 3 years building AI systems for coaches. Then I saw what brokerages were doing to follow up on leads and I couldn't look away."
- "Why I'm building Wakeeli from Beirut for the US real estate market (and why I think it's actually an advantage)"
- "The honest version of what it's like to build a SaaS company solo with no funding"

Hook formula: Start personal. Get to the insight.

"I almost didn't build Wakeeli. I almost kept running the system for coaches instead. Here's what changed my mind."

Posting Schedule

Day	Post type
Monday	Education post
Wednesday	Build journal or social proof
Friday	Contrarian take or founder story

Consistency over virality. You do not need a viral post. You need 50 brokerage owners to see your name three times a week for eight weeks. That is the game.

DM OUTREACH SEQUENCE: COMPLETE PLAYBOOK

Framework: Liam Ottley. Warm, value-first, human. Never automated, never templated to the point of feeling robotic.

Finding Prospects (Sales Navigator Daily Routine)

Morning block (30 minutes, every weekday):

1. Open Sales Navigator
2. Filter: Title contains "Broker" OR "Owner" OR "Team Lead" | Industry: Real Estate | Geography: TX, FL, CA, AZ | Posted on LinkedIn in last 30 days
3. Review profiles: look for anyone who has posted about lead quality, agent productivity, technology, or conversion
4. Send 20 connection requests with personalized notes
5. Log in a spreadsheet: Name, Company, City, Date sent, Connection status

Afternoon block (15 minutes, every weekday):

1. Check who accepted connections since yesterday
2. Send Step 2 message (first DM) to everyone who accepted
3. Review who replied and prioritize responses

This is not glamorous. This is the job until you have enough inbound to replace it.

Full 4-Step Sequence (Detailed)

Connection note (Step 1):

Personalize based on what they posted or where they are located. Examples:

If they posted about lead quality:

"Hey [Name], saw your post about lead follow-up challenges. Building something that directly addresses that. Sending a request."

If they are in a specific city:

"Hey [Name], looking at growth brokerages in [City]. What you're building at [Company] caught my eye. Sending a request."

If no recent activity:

"Hey [Name], noticed [Company] in my research on top brokerages in [State]. Something I'm building might be relevant to your team. Sending a request."

First message after connection (Step 2):

Send within 24 hours of acceptance.

"Hey [Name], thanks for connecting.

Quick context on why I reached out: I've spent 3 years running an AI conversation system that booked 36,000 appointments across 400,000 conversations. Info coaching space.

I'm now adapting that same infrastructure for real estate brokerages. The problem I keep seeing: agents can't respond to leads fast enough, and that 5-minute window closes fast.

I'm running a 30-day pilot program with 3 brokerages. No cost. Full setup handled by me. You get the results data either way.

Is that worth a 20-minute conversation?"

Follow-up if no reply in 5 days (Step 3):

"Hey [Name], just following up on my message from earlier this week.

Short version: 30-day free pilot, I set everything up, you get a working AI that contacts every new lead within 60 seconds and books tours automatically.

If lead conversion is a priority this quarter, it's worth the 20 minutes. If timing is off, no worries at all."

Final message if still no reply in 10 days (Step 4):

"Last follow-up, [Name]. Not going to keep showing up in your inbox.

Here's a 3-minute video of the system in action: [link]

If it's ever relevant, you know where to find me."

Response HandlingIf they ask "What is this exactly?"

Send the demo video and this:

"It's an AI that responds to every new lead within 60 seconds, qualifies them through a conversation, and books property tours automatically. No scripts, no canned responses. It's built on Claude (Anthropic's AI). Happy to show you a live demo on a quick call."

If they say "Send me more info"

Do not send a 10-page document. Send:

1. The demo video link
2. Two sentences on the result from your best pilot
3. A Calendly link

"Here's a 3-minute demo: [link]. The key result from our first pilot: 42 tours booked vs. 11 in the prior month, same lead volume. Happy to show you the full picture on a quick call: [Calendly link]"

If they say "We're not interested"

"Completely understood. If anything changes down the road, I'm easy to find. Appreciate the response."

That is it. Do not argue. Do not push. Move on.

MINDSET AND PRIORITIES

Framework: Alex Hormozi. One metric. One constraint. One focus.

The Only Metric That Matters Each Week (By Phase)

Phase 0 (Week 1 to 2): Is the product stable enough to demo? Yes or no.

Phase 1 (Week 1 to 4): Number of demo calls booked this week. Nothing else.

Phase 2 (Week 4 to 8): Are the pilot numbers good enough to publish as a case study? Yes or no.

Phase 3 (Week 8 to 16): MRR. That is the scoreboard.

Phase 4 (Ongoing): MRR minus churn. Net new revenue that sticks.

What to Say No To

Until MRR hits $5,000, say no to:

- Conferences and events
 - Partnership conversations that do not directly result in a new client
 - Building features no paying client has asked for
 - Social media platforms other than LinkedIn
 - Inbound interest from verticals other than real estate (stay focused)
 - Any tool, software, or subscription that is not directly tied to getting the next client

How to Know If It Is Working

Green lights:

- Getting 3 to 5 demo calls per week
- Demo call show-up rate above 70%
- At least 1 person per month moves from demo to client
- LinkedIn content getting meaningful engagement from brokerage owners (comments, not just likes)

Red lights:

- Less than 1 demo call per week after Week 4
- Everyone on demo calls says "interesting but not ready"
- No response to follow-up messages from anyone

What to do if you hit red lights:

Do not pivot the product. Change the message first. Book 10 more calls and ask every single person: "What would have to be true for this to be an obvious yes for you?" Listen. The market will tell you what is wrong.

Weekly Routine (Non-Negotiable)Monday:

- Review last week's outreach numbers
- Set the week's single goal (1 demo call minimum)
- Write and schedule the week's LinkedIn posts

Tuesday to Thursday:

- Morning: 30 minutes on Sales Navigator outreach
- Afternoon: respond to DMs, prep for demo calls, work on product/flows

Friday:

- Demo calls (schedule them on Fridays so prospects are in planning mode)
- Review: what worked in outreach this week, what did not
- Update the case study doc with any new data from pilots

Weekend:

- Do not work. Seriously. Solo founders who burn out in Month 3 never make it to Month 6.

NORTH STAR

You have been building for 6 months. The product works. The proof exists in a different vertical. The only thing between you and your first paying client is a conversation with the right person at the right time.

That conversation is a function of volume and quality. This plan gives you both.

Run the playbook. Post the content. Send the DMs. Book the demos. Close the pilots.

The case study is everything. Get the case study.

Everything after that is a copy-paste of what you learned.
